Biography

My experience in film, television, and theater has taught me the nuances between storytelling mediums, allowing me to move smoothly between each type of work and find fresh and interesting ways to amplify my characters as much as possible. I possess sociable and communication skills to work with the director in conveying the writer's message. I also have ample experience with action, comedy, and drama and have performed for young audiences as well as adult viewers throughout my career.

My journey began as a competitive swimmer in my teenage years. Being a swimmer inspired me to become an ocean lifeguard on the East coast of the United States. I later returned to Europe to pursue a degree in Civil Engineering. I currently hold a Master's degree in Civil Engineering and practice actively.
